SEA COW SHOT NEAR P.E.I.

Charlottetown, P.E.I.—A 700-pound specimen of the sea cow, a gregarious mammal which has not been seen in Island waters for many years, was recently shot on the shore of Sea Cow Pond, an inlet named in the days when these mammals swarmed its shore. The carcass has been purchased by a Summerside manufacturing concern and the skin will be used in shoe-leather, the flesh for fox meat and the fat for lubricating oil.

An Irishman and a Scotchman were discussing the horrors of living in a local option town, when the Irishman remarked: "Sure, an' you might git used to it after a while. You know, they say a camel can go eight days without a drink."

"Hoot, man!" retorted the Scotchman. "It's little ye ken about the Campbells when ye say that. There's nae one of them could go eight days wi' out a wee dram o' something."

That ended the discussion.

CHEAP GOODS

"Any article can be made cheaper and sold for less" and therein lies the reason why mail order houses in general are so popular. A cheap article is one which is well made, good material; a few years ago thousands of cheap articles were placed on the market at $1.50; they lasted for a few months and proved cheaper than the higher priced standard article. Beware of cheap mail order prices. A local resident ordered an article by mail which proved shoddy and it was returned; a visit to the store and a good article was bought at the same price, nor did he sign a paper and request to have the cash ten days before delivering the article. The mail order price of a standard article of proven workmanship and materials will be found to be the same as the local retail price. The chief reason is the "bulge" of the mail order companies. Local business men lost customers and requested payment in advance. How long would a local business man last who gave this kind of service to customers and then requested payment in advance? It will pay you every time to make your purchases with the local merchants; they are the builders and the main supporters of the community and they deserve your co-operation.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

The monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Will Tustain on Thursday afternoon

Mr. D. McIsaac has arrived from Tignish, P.E.I., as successor to Mr. G. Smith as manager of the Royal Bank branch here. Mr. Smith will leave shortly for Calgary, to join the head quarters staff.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. E. S. Easterbrook on Thursday evening. The principal business of the meeting was the making arrangements to put on a whist drive to raise funds to plant the cemetery to trees next spring.

The Hallowe'en party staged in the I.O.O.F. hall on the night of October 31st, under the auspices of the local teaching staff, was a huge success. Nearly everyone went masked and in fancy costumes. The various cuts and colors could scarcely be of a wider range in design at a fancy dress ball. The hall was appropriately decorated with jack-o'-lanterns, pumpkins, black cases, owls, witches, etc., all of which added to the spirit of the evening. A good programme was carried out which consisted of music, reciting and singing, while games of unique origin constituted the greater sport of the party. And, oh! how the youngsters screamed and screamed as they tumbled over each other in the peanut scrambles in the lively merriment. The ladies of town served an appetizing luncheon, which brought the evening's amusements to a close with everybody feeling a bit refreshed with a bit of fun.

On Friday evening, November 2nd, a grand concert was staged in the I.O.O.F. hall by the Hillcrest Welsh Concert Party, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary, when a large crowd gathered to listen to these entertainers. The concert was conducted by Mr. Eddie Edwards, A.T.S.C., with the artists were: Mr. Edgar Idrys, eminent Welsh tenor, who appeared by royal command July 6th, 1922; Mr. Tom Cuthbert, well known Scotch baritone; Mr. Trevor Protheroe, Welsh national winner, Ammonford, 1922; Mr. Cecil Rhys, gold medallist; Mr. Percy Rhys, popular Welsh tenor; Mr. Ernest Rhys, elocutionist; Mr. Tom Beynon, A.L.C.M., L.L.C.M., pianist. The programme, which was lengthy, opened with a chorus by fifteen men, "Men of Harlech"; "Killarney," duet, by Edgar and Cecil Rhys; baritone solo, "A Few Stories," by T. Protheroe; tenor solo, by Edgar Rhys; piano solo, by Tom Beynon; tenor solo, by Percy Rhys; tenor solo, by Cecil Rhys; duet by Edgar and Percy Rhys; chorus "Jolly Rogers," by concert party; solo, by Tom Protheroe; duet by Edgar and Cecil Rhys; baritone solo, by Tom Cuthbert; tenor solo, by Edgar Rhys; baritone solo, by Trevor Protheroe; tenor solo, by Cecil Rhys; piano solo, by Tom Beynon; tenor solo, by Percy Rhys, and recitations, by Ernest Rhys. The entertainment was high class all the way through, and most of the numbers were encored several times. The programme was concluded with the Welsh National Anthem and "God Save the King." Rev. Neville Blunt acted as chairman. A neat sum was realized toward the church funds.

The local Masons were at home on Monday evening in their hall. The early part of the evening was taken up with fifteen hands of whist, the winners being: ladies' first, Mrs. Bert Connally; consolation, Mrs. Mundie; gentlemen's first, Harvey Welsh; consolation, Jack Welsh. Following the whist, all sat down to a tasty repast. Song sheets were distributed, when everyone joined in community singing. During intervals, the following musical numbers were rendered: Jack Green, solo; Mrs. A. Betts, solo; Mrs. Robert Littleton, solo; W. Brown, violin solo; Eddie Baines, violin solo; Mrs. G. Smith and Mrs. Littleton, piano duet. Miss Doris McEwen, Mrs. Grant Smith and Mrs. Jack Graham presided at the piano. These numbers were all encored. The honor guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith, who are leaving the local branch of the Royal Bank for Calgary, where Mr. Smith will take up new duties. On behalf of the Lodge, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy presented to Mr. and Mrs. Smith a handsome mahogany mantel clock, to which Mr. Smith made an appropriate reply. The evening's entertainment concluded with an hour of dancing, music for which was furnished by Charley McKerral, accordion; Miss Doris McEwen, piano, and Eddie Baines, violin. Mr. Archie Swart acted as master of ceremonies. The hall was tastefully decorated with potted plants and everything made especially attractive for the occasion. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Archie Swart, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Murphy, Mr. Arthur Denstone, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McMillan, Mr. Ja. K. Green, Mr. W. Brown, Mr. J. W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Connally, Messrs. L. V. Wilfred and Harvey Welsh, Miss Nellie Musgrave, Mr. and Mrs. Mundie, Mr. Penn, Mr. and Mrs. James Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Betts, Mr. Eddie Baines, Mr. Sandy Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Littleton, Mr. Charles McKerral, Miss Doris McEwen, Mr. Jack Graham and Mr. George Porter.

The Menace of Communism

The Sixth International Communist Congress held in Moscow this year declared its avowed policy "to concentrate Communist propaganda on the young people of the world," not on the young people of Russia, or even of Europe, but of the world.

Has that declaration any meaning for Canada? Is it one that the people of Canada need pay any attention to, or in regard to which they should take action?

Communism thrives where there is oppression, injustice, extreme poverty, lack of employment resulting in enforced idleness, and, inevitably arising from these conditions, general discontent. Satan still finds mischief for idle hands to do, and there is nothing quite so mischievous in the world today as Communism and its many pernicious doctrines.

Communism, therefore, found fertile ground in Russia owing to the centuries old oppressions and injustices of the old Tsarist regime, during which the most abject poverty and ignorance continued among the masses of the people alongside an aristocracy rolling in wealth and indulging in all forms of extravagance and luxury. The added sufferings, sacrifices and horrors of the Great War were all that was necessary to set the country afame and provide the Communists with the opportunity they had long been awaiting.

In Canada, unlike Russia, there is no oppression of the people; injustice is not tolerated, and has only to be exposed to be remedied; cases of extreme poverty are rare indeed, and, when found, sympathetic governments, organizations and people respond to the call of need; work, as a rule, is available to all who are willing to work, and seasons of unemployment are but temporary and not a general thing; the overwhelming mass of the people are happy and contented. The soil of Canada is, therefore, yet fertile ground for cultivation by the Communist agitator.

Nevertheless, Canada is not being ignored by the Communists of Russia in their visionary attempt to grasp world power through the overthrow of all institutions of law and order, all religions, the destruction of all present forms of government, and the confiscation of all property and other individuals. The Communist will never be satisfied until he brings in Russia and in certain portions of China. Wherever ever political, social or economic, there the Communist in the past Canada has not been free from manipulation and activity. And the Moscow authorities and otherwise support all such efforts.

The Communist leaders realize, however, that they cannot make much headway with the adult populations of Canada, the United States, and the self-governing Dominions of the British Commonwealth. Hence their openly avowed intention to concentrate their propagandist activities on the "young people of the world."

And therein lies the danger to Canada. If in their youth while their minds are plastic and open to receive impressions, and before their characters are formed, the best interests of Canada or any country, can be inoculated with the virus of Communism, dishonored in God and religion, Communist repudiation of all accepted ideas of morality as merely middle-class virtues, an individual liberty, Communist rebellion against all constitutional systems of government and courts of law and justice, and Communist doctrine that there is nothing good but everything that is bad in all countries except Russia, where, for the time being, Communism holds the whip hand and wields a lash over everybody who dares to voice even the mildest criticism of its methods—if, we say, the youth of Canada can be infected with such ideas, then the very foundations of all that we revere and hold dear in Canada today are being very seriously undermined.

Communism is conducting such a campaign in Canada at the present time. The orders of the International Congress, at Moscow, are being carried out to the letter. Communist day schools and Soviet Sunday schools are being conducted, the most pernicious literature for children is being circulated, and every conceivable plan to attract the interest of the children is adopted and followed. In an age when there is a youthful tendency to scoff at religion as old-fashioned, God, the church, and all religion is openly as well as covertly attacked. Modern youth is encouraged to "go to the limit" in throwing off the conventions and restraints of the past, and are ridiculed if they hesitate to do so. The sanctity of the home is laughed at, and parental, as well as all other forms of authority repudiated as forms of slavery and a denial of the rights of youth.

The campaign is highly dangerous. It is an insidious campaign, and therein lies its greatest danger because it is so frequently difficult to locate and combat it. But it must be fought and dragged into the open for the ugly thing it is, otherwise grief and sorrow is being prepared for parents and children alike, for the home, the church, and the state.

In setting their faces sternly against this disruptive thing, let the Canadian people see to it that no oppression, no injustice, no suffering through poverty or because of lack of work, is allowed anywhere in the Dominion. Let the churches form their moral influence in dealing in forms of worshipfulness. Instead of fighting each, unite their forces in order that effective warfare may be waged on a system which, if it is not destroyed, will ultimately destroy all churches and all religion, and, in destroying these great bulwarks, destroy also the home and the state, and lead to the damnation of the individual.

Big Demand For Sheep

British Columbia Owners Shipping Thousands To Market

Along with the greatly improved position and prospects of grain farmers, beef cattle men in British Columbia, who held on during lean years, are reaping their reward. Sheep farmers as usual are on velvet—sheep have been a consistently good bet in British Columbia for years, and appear likely to remain so. Heron Bros., with 135 per cent. increase from the lamb crop are shipping between three and four thousand head to market and retaining around one thousand ewe lambs for breeding stock. The demand for sheep is strong and, with more and more farmers getting into the game on a big scale and farmers generally turning their attention to sheep in small numbers, the temptation to sell is almost irresistible.

Oil Shale and Tar Sands

Vast Resources Located In Maritimes and In Alberta

Canada has vast resources of oil shale and bituminous sands, the former occurring in Maritime Provinces, and the latter in Alberta. These deposits have long been considered as potential sources of products generally obtained from crude petroleum. As a result of recent modifications in the methods of extraction, these may now be seriously considered as sources, to be drawn upon when needed, to help in supplying the rapidly increasing demand for motor fuel.

Canadian Arctic Expedition

Well On the Way To Frozen North, Equipped With Radio

An example of the use of Canadian products by the Canadian Government in important scientific and exploration work comes with a report of the departure from Ottawa of the Canadian Arctic Expedition, organized by the Northwest and Yukon Branch of the Canadian Department of the Interior.

The expedition was under the direction of Major L. T. Burwash, well known Canadian Governmental explorer, who has spent much time in the far North. Press reports this summer indicated that Major Burwash was off on one of his solitary journeys, but the General Canadian Arctic Expedition, according to information from Toronto, left that city in three parties.

All three parties were equipped with Eveready radio "B" batteries on the sets supplied for the expedition by the Department of Marine and Fisheries. Word has reached headquarters of the Canadian National Carbon Company that all branches of this Department are using Canadian National Carbon Company products.

Reports this summer on Major Burwash's activities indicate he was engaged in exploration of unusual scientific interest which promises to yield also an abundance of romance. He planned a jaunt of 5,000 miles by rail, road, boat and dog team lading him at the magnetic pole, the trip being planned partly as a hunt for relics of the Arctic expedition of Sir John Franklin which ended in disaster in 1848.

Rumor fitting back occasionally from the frozen Northland told that one of Franklin's two ships, the Erebus and the Terror, may be sighted in the Arctic Ocean near King William Land or Boothia Peninsula. If the ship can be found the Canadian Government will be enriched by the recovery of old relics and records believed to be aboard her.

Major Burwash also planned to investigate conditions among the Eskimos north of Mackenzie and Keewatin and the proposed tractor-train route from Wagner Bay on the West Coast of Hudson Bay to Cockburn Bay south of King William Land.

One of the primary purposes for the expedition assigned by press reports is to determine the westward shift of the magnetic pole so that mariners' charts may be corrected.

HON. J. MALCOLM TALKS TO BRITAIN OVER TELEPHONE

Ottawa, Ont.—Ten thousand people who thronged the grounds of the Canadian Empire Exhibition, in Wales, and many thousands more throughout the British Isles, heard Hon. James Malcolm, minister of trade and commerce, speak to them from Ottawa over the trans-Atlantic telephone.

"Simply marvelous reception," the word came back from Cardiff, as soon as the minister had finished his eight minute address. "The best yet."

Mr. Malcolm's office in the parliamentary buildings was the Ottawa "call station."

Mr. Malcolm introduced his brief address by expressing the hope of the Canadian people to the people of Wales, and declared that the ideal of empire trade for which the exhibition stands was finding strong and patriotic support in this country. The minister voiced a word of praise for the empire marketing board. Trade, he said, was only a medium through which the people of the empire became acquainted and through which were learned the difficulties and viewpoints of the various units. To know one's self was essential, to know one's country was a patriotic duty; to know the empire was a great and profitable advantage.

The minister made passing reference to the arrival in Canada of the prime minister from his lengthy sojourn abroad, and expressed Mr. MacKenzie King's thanks for the reception tendered him in Great Britain.

"The question of interperial migration has been much to the fore in recent months," said Mr. Malcolm. "While calling your attention to the speech delivered by our prime minister recently in London, in the course of which he declared that Canada welcomed British emigrants, may I say that British North America has in recent years been receiving as many British emigrants as are going to all other empire countries.

The return movement is relatively small, indicating that the great bulk of those who come to us are satisfied with their welcome and with the opportunities which Canada affords—opportunities which have never been greater than today. In the year 1922 we expect to receive over 100,000 British emigrants; this year we are receiving over 500 every month. If an interempire problem exists on the question of migration, may I say for the government and the people of Canada that none are more welcome in this Dominion than the sons and daughters of the British Isles."

The minister concluded with a reference to the Prince of Wales, whom Canada claimed as "a landed proprietor and taxpayer of this Dominion." His Royal Highness was the great ambassador of the empire, representative of all our common traditions, common history and common ideals for a United Empire. The Prince of Wales was a joint passenger.

Mr. Malcolm closed with a wish that the Canadian Empire Exhibition might meet with unprecedented success.

Campaign In Saskatchewan This Year Was Highly Successful

Regina.—The crow and magpie population of the province has been decreased by more than 1,000,000 as a result of the activities of 4,230 contestants for the 1,500 prizes offered by the Provincial Department of Railways, Labor and Industries in the 1922 crow campaign, according to the report in the Public Service monthly issued for last month.

The success of the competition may be gauged by the results which show that 465,963 legs and 851,716 eggs were collected. Actually, therefore, the enemy suffered a total loss of 514,602 before hostilities closed, September 1."

Cities May Have Own Aerodrome

London, Eng.—An aerodrome in every city in Britain is the program put forward by the air ministry. Realization of the program depends on the city councils using the money and therefore it will not be implemented. Manchester and Nottingham have already purchased land for aerodromes and Leeds, Hull and Liverpool are expected soon to follow their example.

Vivian Allenby Honored

New York.—Field Marshal Vivian Allenby, of Great Britain, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from New York University.

Famine Stalks In China

Babies Being Killed On Account Of Lack Of Food

Shanghai, China.—The China international famine relief is being flooded with appeals from the stricken districts, particularly in Shensi, where, it is declared, "babies are being killed because there is nothing to feed them and their mothers are being sold for a mere song."

Thousands of persons are said to be living on the bark and leaves of trees. According to Shensi the famine includes districts in Kwangsi, Suyuan, Hupei, Hunan and Honan. A magistrate of Yang Hsien in a letter estimates that there are 200,000 famine sufferers, owing to the drought and the devastations of the "Red Spears" a guerrilla organization. The situation in Shensi, the magistrate declares, is unprecedented, children being sold openly in the market by parents eager for cash. In Hunan thousands are on the verge of starvation, due to the banditry, communist uprisings, the Red Spears and drought.

Serious Famine In Russia

Mobs In Moscow Are Openly Denouncing The Government

London, Eng.—Soviet Russia is in the throes of a famine which is reaching serious proportions, according to reports from Helsinki and Riga, received by the Exchange Telegraph Company here.

Mounted police are patrolling Moscow and dispersing near-violent mobs whose leaders openly denounce the government, the Helsinki report stated.

Foreign legations in Moscow are perturbed over the seriousness of the situation, although some, it is said, are disposed to welcome it because it affords them a legitimate reason for leaving.

In Leningrad similar scenes were enacted according to the Riga reports. In Moscow, after waiting in a broad line all night, were given apples. Angered, they used the apples to bombard the windows of food stores and threatened to lynch the food distributors. A large number were arrested and later released.

Brilliant Meteoric Display Predicted

Shooting Stars Will Be Seen From November 10 To 17

Montreal.—Meteor displays of striking brightness are predicted to occur for a period lasting from Nov. 10 to 17 inclusive, according to an announcement from Harvard College Observatory, which is directed by Prof. A. E. Whitel Douglass, lecturer in astrophysics and secretary of the Montreal centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

These displays, commonly known as shooting stars, will be seen in the northern sky south of the constellation of the Great Bear, better known as the Dipper. The shooting stars will be best observed after midnight until four o'clock in the morning, and will be seen as bright flashes across the sky.

Remain In Canada

5,000 British Harvesters Still Remaining In Canada

Ottawa.—With harvesting operations completed in the west and with approximately 7,000 British harvesters still remaining in Canada, it is probable that the majority will remain permanently established, department of immigration officials stated today. Reports from steamship companies to the department indicate that approximately 3,500 have returned to the British Isles.

From the fact that very few of the harvesters have applied at government employment bureau offices of the labor department believe that in the majority of cases they have found permanent work on western farms.

Receives Prize For Research

London, Eng.—F. C. Bunting, in caring the Cameron prize for research at Edinburgh University, told how he discovered insulin. He was in London, Ont., when he realized which way affected him. He could not sleep that night and at two o'clock in the morning he was able to crystallize his ideas which led to his successful experiments.

Spanish Royalty In London

London, Eng.—Queen Victoria of Spain, and her daughter, the Infanta Beatriz and Maria Christina, arrived here and were met at Victoria station by the King and Queen. The royal party will be the guests of Queen Victoria's mother, the Princess Beatrix, widow of Prince Henry of Battenberg.

Alberta Sheep Breeders

Officers Elected At Annual Meeting Held In Calgary

Calgary.—Officers elected at the annual meeting of the Alberta Sheep Breeders' Association held in Calgary, were:

President, John Wilson; vice-president, William Hudson; of Keston; second vice-president, Alex. S. McDougall, Champion; directors, W. L. Carlyle, Calgary; M. McK. Andrews, Dewinton; John Hamsey, Simon's Valley; Richard Knights, Calgary; John Wilson, Jr., Innisfail; E. J. Reid, Cremona; A. M. Olson, Aldrie; R. Hogarth, Cochrane; Peter Massie, Midnapore, and B. H. A. McDonald, Champion.

Meetings of the directors of the Alberta Horse Breeders' Association and the Alberta Cattle Breeders' Association were also held.

GRAF ZEPPELIN LANDS SAFELY IN HOME PORT

Friedrichshafen, Germany.—Completing the first round-trip commercial trans-Atlantic flight, the Graf Zeppelin landed at the aerodrome here with passengers and mail from America.

The ship, coming from Lakehurst, N.J., made the fastest crossing of the Atlantic by a lighter-than-air machine, covering a distance of 4,003 miles.

Since leaving Friedrichshafen on the morning of October 11, the Graf Zeppelin had flown approximately 10,000 miles. Going by the southern route on the westward flight, she flew 6,000 miles in 111 hours and 38 minutes.

The Graf Zeppelin arrived over her home port just 63 hours and 56 minutes from the start of her flight.

The airship thus established a new record for eastward flight by a dirigible across the Atlantic. The British dirigible R-34, in 1919, made the only previous eastward flight from RNAS Filton to England in 75 hours.

It was revealed that the Zeppelin encountered heavy storms while flying over central France forcing Dr. Eckener to alter his course considerably missing Paris. The speed also was reduced to less than 50 miles an hour.

With the approach of the dirigible the population of the town, swelled many times its normal size, was aroused by volleys of saluting shots. The people rushedpell-mell to the aerodrome, where the crews of the Zeppelin works were already assembled at the hangar. It was raining but they were wild with excitement.

The airship, after allowing the cheering thousands a brief glimpse of her great form, rapidly passed out of sight and then reappeared a little later over Lake Constance. Throughout the town the church bells were ringing frantically and a cannonade of saluting shots was being fired constantly.

Numerous searchlights played upon the silvery sides of the dirigible as it passed over the town.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Saskatchewan Leads In Grain Shipments

Peak Of Movement Passed In First Three Months Of Crop Year

Winnipeg.—"Fully 65 per cent. of the crop has been marketed since estimates have run around 530,000,000 bushels, and the railways have received 304 million bushels to date," is the report of J. G. Sutherland, superintendent of the Canadian Pacific.

Saskatchewan is in the lead with 86,976,185 bushels dumped into elevator bins on Canadian Pacific lines, 79,073,723 bushels being wheat.

Manitoba has 35,144,225 bushels of all kinds, including 19,530,015 bushels of wheat.

With such figures as proof, Mr. Sutherland holds the opinion that the peak of the movement has been passed in these first three months of the crop year.

Stricken With Bovine Disease

Trouble Common In Cattle Now Attacks Human Beings

Chatham, Ont.—That a Dover Township man had been infected with bacillus abortus, a disease common in cattle but previously unknown to human beings, was made known at a meeting of the Kent County Medical Association here.

The case was discovered by Dr. James Moriarity, of this city. His patient was a young man of 23, who went to him in August for treatment. He had all the symptoms of typhoid fever, but various blood tests were negative.

During September and the early part of October, the man's temperature varied from 99 to 103. He grew emaciated and suffered loss of appetite, headaches, pain in the joints and frequent nose-bleeds. Finally a blood test revealed the disease.

The operation party has now secured twenty-three of a total of forty seats and nine government supporters had been returned.

Both Sir Richard Squires and Hon. P. C. Alderdice were elected. Sir Richard ran in Hunter while Premier Alderdice contested St. John's City East.

Contractors Supply Stilts For Workmen

Innovation Of Toronto Firm To Eliminate Costly Scaffolding

Toronto.—An innovation in the building industry of Toronto contractors provided six-foot stilts for their workmen. The plan was to do away with costly scaffolding.

Surprised and indignant at the plan, two workmen refused to don the stilts and reported to officials of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners that they lost their jobs as a result.

William Varley, secretary of the Building Trades Council, is investigating to discover whether the use of stilts would be a contravention of city or provincial statute.

Ottawa.—Important announcements in regard to an increase in British assisted immigration are almost certain to follow the tour of Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration, through the western provinces.

Mr. Forke has just returned and in the course of this trip interviewed the Premiers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia in their respective capitals. He went thoroughly into the various policies now being advanced by his department single and in co-operation with the British Government, and wherever possible, invited their active assistance.

The kind of assistance which the provinces may give is various. They may assist the Federal department in checking up the bona fides of persons within their boundaries who apply to Ottawa for aid in bringing their families out from Britain, or they may enter actively into a scheme of settlement and bear a part of the financial burden.

Mr. Forke has little to say of his trip, except that all the Premiers had been much interested in immigration problems and had promised to give the most careful consideration to the many suggestions which he had made.

There is ample time for such consideration since all the settlement work is done in the spring and early summer months, and provided the Federal Department knows now much assistance it may expect from a province by the new year, the task of arranging for the movement of the settlers can be performed.

It would appear that the provinces were more interested in boy settlement than in the policies for older persons, and it is in this field that important announcements may be made.

Mr. Forke, it is understood, put forward a proposal whereby all boys brought out and placed on probation training farms should be assisted to start up as farmers, provided that they could $700 out of their earnings.

In this event the British and Canadian governments would put up $2,250, and would ask the provinces to advance $250 which, coupled with the boys' savings, would make a fund of $3,000 which is considered to be ample to begin farming.

It is probable that the responses of the provinces to this scheme will be enthusiastic and that a very big movement of boys will be inaugurated next year.

BRITISH LABOR MAKES GAINS IN CIVIC ELECTIONS

London, Eng.—Labor leaders are seated over gains made in the municipal elections in the cities and towns throughout England. Incomplete returns indicate that Labor candidates have made a net gain of 101 seats on municipal councils outside of London while their principal opponents registered a loss of 71, and independent a loss of 31.

Results of the elections created exceptional interest this year, some leaders professing to believe that the vote would indicate in some degree what could be expected at the general elections throughout the country next year.

Labor gains, partial returns indicated, were made largely at the expense of Conservatives. At Twickenham the Labor party gained three seats from Conservatives. Twickenham is the parliamentary constituency of Right Hon. William Joynson-Hicks, former secretary of state.

A feature of the elections in London was the candidature of 450 women as compared with 343 who stood for office in 1922.

The 1922 elections resulted in the return of 140 of the women candidates. While returns from the elections are far from complete it is known that a number of the women headed the polls in their districts. Seven women have been elected to the municipal council of the borough of Poplar. The 21-year-old daughter of the mayor of Fulham was elected.

Unemployed men ran for office in a number of the boroughs and this type of candidate fared worst at Southwark and Shoreditch. Three Communist candidates at Poplar were badly beaten. The mayor of Bermondsey was defeated in his own division.

Armistice Day Letters

Two Million Letters Sent To America From France

La Havre, France.—Two million letters, the largest mailing ever sent from France, have started to America on the French steamer Rochefoucauld. They are timed for delivery to American women about Armistice Day.

These letters, although advertising matter, have been turned to propaganda. They have been addressed to the wives of American soldiers and their mothers. The idea is that American women getting a letter from France on Armistice Day will think of the country where many sent their sons or husbands to war.

Fred Graham, Pontypool, Ont., who drew Baytown in the pool, will receive about $11,800 as second prize. E. A. McLatchey, New Glasgow, N.S., holds the ticket on Insight, placing third. McLatchey will get $5,900, the amount of the third prize.

Receives Death Sentence

William Hugh Megill To Be Hanged For The Murder Of Anna Goff

Shaunavon, Sask.—William Hugh Megill will be hanged on February 1 for the murder of Anna Goff. A King's Bench court found Megill guilty of slaying the 10-year-old orphan girl. The crime took place last June, in the Eastend District where Megill worked as a farm hand. No hope of mercy for the condemned man was held out by Mr. Justice H. V. Bigelow.

Militia Officers Committee

Hamilton, Ont.—Thirty officers of the Thirtieth Canadian Legion Galt Battalion, one of whom is alleged to have drawn his sword on a police officer, were committed for trial by Magistrate Jafels, on charges of assaulting two police officers who arrested them at the Thistle Club.

Heavy Mail By Zeppelin

Washington.—The Graf Zeppelin carried 101,683 pieces of mail back to Germany, for which the German postal administration will be credited with $75,713 by the United States postal service. The mail, weighing about 1,000 lbs., consisted of 49,748 letters and 51,935 postcards.

Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles are shown above at the doorway of their Fortunesta castle, in Ireland, where they were accorded a royal welcome upon their recent visit. Shortly before their arrival the stables of the castle were set afire, apparently by a fanatic, but Lord Lascelles requested that no punishment be meted out to the culprit.

PROVINCIAL POULTRY SHOW

The prize list for the Alberta provincial poultry show, which is to be held at Calgary December 4th to 7th, 1928, is now ready for distribution, and copies may be had by request from the secretary, Calgary Poultry and Pet Stock Association, exhibition offices, Calgary.

In addition to generous cash prizes for all varieties of poultry, turkeys, geese, ducks, bantams and pigeons, there are several pages of special prizes and challenge trophies to be competed for.

Besides the open classes in all the recognized breeds, there are sections for production classes and novice classes, and these carry the same liberal cash awards as the open classes.

Then there are divisions for eggs and for dressed poultry. The dressed poultry display is always a big attraction, and when the exhibits in this department are auctioned on Wednesday evening, there will be spirited bidding and fine prices realized.

Prospective exhibitors would do well to procure a copy of the prize list early and study its contents.

RAIL ROUTE, PRAIRIES TO COAST VIA CROW, IN SIGHT

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 31.—A Kamloops special to the Province states:

"It is understood that the C.P.R. will extend its present line from Proctor, on the West Arm of Kootenay Lake, to connect with Kootenay Landing at an early date. Survey of a proposed route along the lake shore has been completed, but engineers are now on the ground to make a final decision on the route to be utilized. It has been suggested that the line be constructed away from the lake shore and be extended south easterly from Proctor."

"Decision to close the gap between Proctor and Kootenay Landing is due to mining development in the area. At present time ore shipped from Kimberley and other Kootenay points to Trail travels from Kootenay Landing to Proctor on car barges. The process of loading the cars on the barges, travelling up the lake and unloading at Proctor consumed much time."

"It is believed that many hours can be saved in the shipment of ore to Trail by an all-rail route. It is also believed that an all-rail route from the prairies to Vancouver, via the Crow's Nest Pass, will result in greatly increased grain shipments to the Pacific port via the Kettle Valley line."

The marriage of Miss Edna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, to Mr. Ed. Womersley, was solemnized at the United Church manse on Thursday night last by Rev. J.W. Smith in the presence of immediate relatives and friends. Following the ceremony, a dainty wedding supper was partaken of at the home of the bride's parents on Fifth Avenue.

The Rebekah tea and sale of work held in the Lodge hall on Saturday afternoon last was a decided success. The cake, donated by Miss E. Kidd, was won by Mrs. B. Sensier, the winning ticket being No. 77, while the bed lamp, donated by Mrs. Simister, was won by Mrs. Rees, with ticket No. 27. The Rebekahs wish to thank all those who patronized the affair.

Inspector Meade, of the R.C.M.P., has been transferred from Lethbridge to Vancouver and leaves for that soonest. At the coast city he will take over the duties as inspector in charge of the criminal investigation department of the R.C.M.P., succeeding Inspector Reame, who comes to Lethbridge.

Returning from a honeymoon trip via the Banff-Windermere trail, following their marriage at Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. David Oliver were obliged to stop at Fernie on Thursday last, where Mr. Oliver entered hospital and underwent an operation for appendicitis, which was successful. It will be a few days yet before they will reach Blairmore to take up their new home.

The marriage of Mr. Oliver to Miss Margaret Wiswall was solemnized by Rev. W. T. Young at Calgary.

Light Beam Produces Music
Expert Could Stop Sound By Blocking Light With His Hand

A narrow beam of light cast about an assembly room in the Hotel Biltmore, at Atlanta, Georgia, was changed into music and held under perfect control at the will of John Banbury Taylor, consulting engineer of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N.Y.

The demonstration, given before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, was made possible through a complicated apparatus by which electrical impulse is controlled by the beam of light, and represented what Mr. Taylor called "beam castings."

The equipment used in the demonstration is known as a photo-phone, built on old principles. Mr. Taylor said, but utilizing the perfected photo-electric tube, electric pick-up and newly developed amplifiers and sound reproducers.

An ordinary phonograph with an intricate electrical attachment was used in producing the music. The electrical energy was sent over a light beam in transforming and reproducing movements mounted on a tripod. The same effect which is often desired was the result. When Mr. Taylor would hold up his hand in the path of light the music would stop, and as he allowed the light to filter through his fingers the music increased in volume.

Another Story About Ants

Psychologist Tells How They Extinguish Flies With Formic Acid

Speaking of flea circuses, here is a story about ants who act as frenzied supporters by no less an authority than the Journal de Psychologie, edited by Dr. Pierre Janet, internationally known psychologist, of Paris.

Marguerite Combès, an entomologist of note, introduced a lighted candle into an ant-hill in the forest of Fontainbleau not far from Paris, a hill of brown ants known as "formic rufa."

The ants scurried about a bit and then proceeded to extinguish the flame by squirting formic acid upon it.

These ants are definitely of a higher order than other species inhabiting the forest. In other hills, where ants either become panic stricken or die trying to bite the flame, where they had the intelligence to try to extinguish the fire by acid, they lacked the ability to direct the stream effectively.

Explanations and Comments

A Call To Consecration For Service, verses 1 and 2.—The meaning of these two long verses has been discussed elsewhere in this paper. In view of all that God has done for us, we should henceforth live for him. The One Volume Commentary para-phrases the verses thus: "God's demands are that we should consecrate the true sacrifice and spiritual, ritual service of a life of purity and self-denial and work for God." Do not let us forget that our duty is to the world, our country, our church, but let your ways of thinking be so changed by the Holy Spirit that you look for and recognize God's will and love to do it.

"Can I cook?" repeated Andy. "I ask me can I cook? That's me first name; that's me profession. I've cooked on sailing ships, steamboats, in camps, in the Army, I had thirty days in Sydney jail, and blime me if they didn't make me eat cook. I was so good they wanted me to stay."

"You're hired, Andy," said Douglas decidedly. "But isn't it going to be pretty tough to quit the boxing game for cooking?"

"Sein' as you've asked me I'll say that it's a blin'k'ight better than quittin' it for tiddly-winks!"

Douglas came to his feet. "I want you to meet Dad, Donald, and we'll find out when we are to start."

Andy patted his stomach contemplatively. "Well, with this ere champagne under my belt, I think I'll start in 'ere and have a drink and a sight in every bar from 'ere to Cordova Street. About meetin' you Donald," he added scratching his head reflectively, "the way I feel right now I think by tomorrow morning you'll find me in the bridal-chamber of the Victoria Hotel." Saying which, with straightforward sincerity, his head set at a characteristic angle, he swaggered down the street and with a wave of his hand disappeared within the swinging doors of the first saloon. In his present mood Andy envied no millionaire.

"You'll like Dad," said Douglas, as they ran up the steps of the big office building. "He's rather severe looking and pretty straight-laced. And the face he wears in the office isn't the face he wears at home." He finished with a laugh.

Robert Rennie was the sole owner of the Rennie Construction and Logging Company, one of the largest organizations of its kind on the Coast. He now rose from his chair and came around the desk, all the while studying Donald's face, while bore unmistakable traces of the afternoon's fight.

"Dad, this is Donald McLean, whom I told you about last night. I don't want to take up much of your time; just wanted you to meet Donald and find out when we can start on the trip to the mountains."

"Now that Gillis is here to go with you, you can go any time; the sooner the better, as we expect to have the railroad to the summit in a few weeks," responded his father, his eyes still on Donald.

"Thanks, Dad," said Douglas. "We can be ready tomorrow and leave the next day."

"Douglas, will you please go to Bowser's office and get some papers he promised to have ready today?" asked Robert Rennie.

Douglas moved toward the door with Douglas.

"Sit down, Mr. McLean, and wait until Douglas comes back," invited Robert Rennie politely, as he pushed a chair toward Donald. He then closed the door of the outer office, where a girl sat pounding a typewriter.

When the older man turned, his eyes set in broad sockets, and he crossed the room to seize the hand of his astonished visitor in a heavy grip. "Man! man!" he exclaimed, as he pumpled Donald's hand vigorously, "that was a great fight today! When you got Garneau with your left in the second round and that fellow rang, I—I—heavens, but I was excited!" He was gazing at Donald with admiration glowing in his eyes.

"You—you were there!" gasped Donald.

Robert Rennie chuckled. "Top row—nigger heaven! When that brute fouled you I think I could have shot him!"

"Mr. Rennie, I'm not a professional fighter, I—I—"

"Put! put!" interrupted the enthusiastic fan. "I can see that. By gad! that last round was a whirlwind. That right you landed on his jaw—I got so excited that I fell down—between the seats and skinned my shins!" He rubbed his leg ruefully.

"I never saw such speed as you showed in that last—"

Here footsteps sounded outside. Robert Rennie moved quickly to his chair, adjusted his glasses and assumed a sedentary expression. "Not a word to Doug," he whispered.

"Dowser says that he told you he'd have the papers tomorrow," informed Douglas.

"Very well," answered his father.

Donald turned as he was leaving the room and saw Robert Rennie close one eye in a wise wink.

CHAPTER VI.

At the breakfast table next morning Douglas was talking hopefully of their chances for a summer holiday.

"You'll have to handle the work of this country," his father admonished. "There won't be any time for play, as we expect to have the road finished in a few weeks."

"Don't worry, Dad. This is my first real job, and I am going to make good," declared Douglas stoutly.

"I hope so, Douglas. As you know, I want you to work your way up on your own merits. I'm not going to show any favouritism. We are going to put in a larger mill at Cheakamus and one at Summit Lake, so there will be good opportunities for advancement for you and McLean if you show the right spirit."

"Is Mr. McLean going with you?" interposed Janet in a casual tone.

"Yes."

"How can he leave his business for so long?"

"He's not actively engaged in business just at present," explained Douglas glibly.

"You might ask him out to dinner tonight. I am having a few friends for the evening."

"You might bet I will."

Douglas accepted Janet's invitation with alacrity. Living within four walls of a room and eating in restaurants has been enough for the largest ship afloat, and the Inlet—veritable inlet sea—has unlimited room for dockings.

"The topography of our City," explained Robert Rennie, "lying between Burrard Inlet and False Creek, is very much like that of New York on Manhattan Island. The Narrows are deep enough for the largest ship afloat, and the Inlet—veritable inlet sea—has unlimited room for dockings."

"The name 'Narrows' seems a fitting word for such a magnificent inlet," observed Donald.

"Quite true," admitted Robert Rennie. "It was only yesterday that one of our public-spirited citizens suggested the name 'Gate'." L

"Oh, Dad, that would be lovely!" exclaimed Janet, her eyes shining.

"The Lions' Gate," with the two watchful Lions looking down on who enter. The name is most fitting."

"Yes," concurred Douglas, "what being one of the Lion's whelps, what more appropriate name than 'Lions' Gate,' the western gateway to the British Empire?"

"The Creator was wonderfully kind to us in His allotment of mountains," said Janet's father; "mountains that are not only valuable for their scenic beauty, but for their mineral-filled rocks and forest-clad sides. Our bays, inlets and streams are filled with fish, and our climate is so mild on the Coast that man can live in comfort and congenial surroundings the year round."

"We have the last of the Great West," continued Mr. Rennie. "With nearly four hundred thousand miles of territory, a coast line seven thousand miles in length, our population for the entire Province is less than one of the Coast cities to the south of us. Here in this vast untouched, hinterland," swinging his arm to the north and east, "lies potential wealth that will support a million of people."

"There is a great deal to be done in the way of clearing land for the cultivation of crops, and there is a great deal of lumber available for building purposes."

"There we have the last of the Great West," concluded Mr. Rennie, his eyes glowing with enthusiasm.

"Who knows?" he finished dreamily, "but what the railroad I am building will be a link in the Alaskan road of the future?"

"Here is a family," thought Donald, "all native born, who have a deep and abiding faith in the destiny of the land of their birth."

Addressing Mr. Rennie, he said: "If the love that you and yours have for this Province is typical of the average citizen, I see no need to fear for the future of your country."

Mrs. Rennie was an excellent hostess. Her cultured and charming personality put Donald at his ease. It seemed to him that she had won the dress-circle and been entertained in a house of luxury and refinement. After the coarse fare of noisy restaurants which had been his, the excellent food, the rich linen, the home-like atmosphere and the subdued voices now gave him a pleasant thrill.

The conversation during dinner was on various subjects. At times it swung perilously near to matters pertaining to Donald's personal affairs. On such occasions Douglas avertly shifted his gaze to other channels.

Janet studied Donald covertly. His perfect poise, his air of refinement and his evident lack of self-consciousness impressed her. "He is cultured and well-bred," she thought as she noted his well-shaped head, his powerful shoulders and his clean-cut profile.

Near the finish of dinner, while waiting for coffee to be served, there came a lull in the conversation which was finally broken by Janet. "Doug tells me that you are engaged in the glove business, Mr. McLean," she stated.

Douglas shot a quick glance at Donald, but his friend's face was hidden in his handkerchief to smother a sudden attack of coughing. In spite of Donald's great effort at self-control, he felt a warm flush rise in his cheeks. What had Douglas divulged? Did his sister know of his participation in a boxing-match? He looked at Douglas appealingly. It was evident that he would receive no aid from that quarter, as that young man's assistance was a prolonged coughing that effectively drowned immediate conversation, but would have to stop sooner or later for lack of breath.

At this crucial moment Robert Rennie came to his assistance. "I would like Mr. McLean to witness a sunset from our roof," he said as he rose from the table. "Let us have our coffee served there. The light will be gone if we wait."

As they ascended the stairs Donald gave his host a grateful look, which Mr. Rennie returned understandingly. That moment cemented an instant friendship in Donald's heart for this broad-minded Western millionaire.

From the eminence of the tiny roof garden the City, sliced with streets, lay at their feet. To the north the mountains were invested with a mystic blue haze, through which towered the snow-clad peaks. To the west lay the curving white sands of English Bay, and beyond, in the clear air of the long British Columbia twilight, they could see the strong mountain profile of Vancouver Island.

"The topography of our City," explained Robert Rennie, "lying between Burrard Inlet and False Creek, is very much like that of New York on Manhattan Island. The Narrows are deep enough for the largest ship afloat, and the Inlet—veritable inlet sea—has unlimited room for dockings."

"The name 'Narrows' seems a fitting word for such a magnificent inlet," observed Donald.

"Oh, Dad, that would be lovely!" exclaimed Janet, her eyes shining.

"The Lions' Gate," with the two watchful Lions looking down on who enter. The name is most fitting."

"Yes," concurred Douglas, "what being one of the Lion's whelps, what more appropriate name than 'Lions' Gate,' the western gateway to the British Empire?"

"The Creator was wonderfully kind to us in His allotment of mountains," said Janet's father; "mountains that are not only valuable for their scenic beauty, but for their mineral-filled rocks and forest-clad sides. Our bays, inlets and streams are filled with fish, and our climate is so mild on the Coast that man can live in comfort and congenial surroundings the year round."

"We have the last of the Great West," continued Mr. Rennie. "With nearly four hundred thousand miles of territory, a coast line seven thousand miles in length, our population for the entire Province is less than one of the Coast cities to the south of us. Here in this vast untouched, hinterland," swinging his arm to the north and east, "lies potential wealth that will support a million of people."

"There is a great deal to be done in the way of clearing land for the cultivation of crops, and there is a great deal of lumber available for building purposes."

"There we have the last of the Great West," concluded Mr. Rennie, his eyes glowing with enthusiasm.

"Who knows?" he finished dreamily, "but what the railroad I am building will be a link in the Alaskan road of the future?"

"Here is a family," thought Donald, "all native born, who have a deep and abiding faith in the destiny of the land of their birth."

Addressing Mr. Rennie, he said: "If the love that you and yours have for this Province is typical of the average citizen, I see no need to fear for the future of your country."

Mrs. Rennie was an excellent hostess. Her cultured and charming personality put Donald at his ease. It seemed to him that she had won the dress-circle and been entertained in a house of luxury and refinement. After the coarse fare of noisy restaurants which had been his, the excellent food, the rich linen, the home-like atmosphere and the subdued voices now gave him a pleasant thrill.

The conversation during dinner was on various subjects. At times it swung perilously near to matters pertaining to Donald's personal affairs. On such occasions Douglas avertly shifted his gaze to other channels.

Janet studied Donald covertly. His perfect poise, his air of refinement and his evident lack of self-consciousness impressed her. "He is cultured and well-bred," she thought as she noted his well-shaped head, his powerful shoulders and his clean-cut profile.

Near the finish of dinner, while waiting for coffee to be served, there came a lull in the conversation which was finally broken by Janet. "Doug tells me that you are engaged in the glove business, Mr. McLean," she stated.

Douglas shot a quick glance at Donald, but his friend's face was hidden in his handkerchief to smother a sudden attack of coughing. In spite of Donald's great effort at self-control, he felt a warm flush rise in his cheeks. What had Douglas divulged? Did his sister know of his participation in a boxing-match? He looked at Douglas appealingly. It was evident that he would receive no aid from that quarter, as that young man's assistance was a prolonged coughing that effectively drowned immediate conversation, but would have to stop sooner or later for lack of breath.

At this crucial moment Robert Rennie came to his assistance. "I would like Mr. McLean to witness a sunset from our roof," he said as he rose from the table. "Let us have our coffee served there. The light will be gone if we wait."

As they ascended the stairs Donald gave his host a grateful look, which Mr. Rennie returned understandingly. That moment cemented an instant friendship in Donald's heart for this broad-minded Western millionaire.

"The name 'Narrows' seems a fitting word for such a magnificent inlet," observed Donald.

"Quite true," admitted Robert Rennie. "It was only yesterday that one of our public-spirited citizens suggested the name 'Gate'." L

British Industries Fair

Increasing Interest is Evidenced in Exhibit to Be Held in London and Birmingham

The British Government announces that the fifteenth British Industries Fair will be held simultaneously in London and Birmingham from the 18th February to the 1st March, 1920, inclusive.

The ever increasing growth of the Fair has necessitated the acquisition of further buildings at the White City to accommodate the immense and varied display of exhibits. At Birmingham the buildings of leather strength have been constructed to meet the insistent demands for space.

In the fifteen years of its existence the Fair has developed to such an extent that it is now classed as one of the great trade fairs of the world.

At the White City the main lines shown include toys and games, leather and leather goods, pottery and glassware, wireless apparatus and chemicals, and druggists sundries.

The Birmingham exhibit comprises hardware lines of all kinds, household appliances, electrical goods and machinery, including such varieties as concrete mixers, elevators and trucks, dredging machines, heavy battery discharge, tractors, forges and blowers and many other types of industrial machinery.

In order to facilitate the transaction of practical business the most thorough and modern system of organization has been adopted. In London the general public will be excluded from admission to the Fair during business hours. A special club for the sole use of buyers will offer many comforts and amenities, potential wealth that will support a million of people.

The Fair will be open to the public on the 18th, 19th and 20th of February, and on the 1st of March.

Full particulars relating to the Fair can be obtained from the British Trade Commissioner, 703 Royal Bank Building, Winnipeg, who will be glad to issue invitations on behalf of the British Government to business men who contemplate making the trip.

You will recall how you came in hand-spoon and spoon, and cooking on the table, as camping. And you said, "It makes my mouth water."

Now, as a matter of fact, it probably did, for the mere sight of smell of your food, good or bad, stimulates the salivary glands to function.

The role played by the saliva among the defensive agencies in the body is very important indeed.

We have a process of mechanical cleansing of the teeth and mouth structures by the saliva; how important is that, that the food be palatable, and that the mastication be thorough to the same end. For it is a matter of common observation, that in the quality of food is thrown away through decay, of "my mouth," the teeth.

Now try this: Chew for a few moments, some strong food, a piece of which is smooth and juicy. Notice, however, how sweet it tastes. What causes this?

In the saliva there is a content known as ptyalin, which has power to decompose starches, sugar, which action takes place during the process of mastication, as the first step in the digestion of the starch elements. But ptyalin cannot perform this function fully, for it is unable to dissolve the fat particles together, and at the same time of lubricating and making slippery the surfaces of the teeth and mouth tissues, thus assisting in the act of swallowing.

Lastly, the presence of saliva with its constant renewal, tends to overcome the harmful action of fermentation of carbohydrate matter in the mouth. Hence, it is important for this reason that the teeth be kept clean.

Therefore, it is worthy of observation here, that great emotions, such as anger or fear, or the unpleasant feeling of worry and vexation, tend to greatly check the normal salivary flow, and for this reason, if for no other, during the process of mastication, the mind should be swept clean of all such disturbing tendencies.

Little Helps For This Week

"I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." —Philippians vi. 11.

But those that are contented, do not grow weary.

Much anguish is prevented. And they soon freed from all.

They finish all their labors with much felicity;

Their joys are multiplied.

Of perfect piety. —Anna Collins.

The fountain of content must spring up in the mind; and she who has so little knowledge of human nature as to seek happiness by changing anything but her own disposition, will waste her life in fruitless efforts, and multiply the griefs which which she proposes to remove.

—Ben Jonson.

Table Removed From Abbey

After remaining in the Jerusalem Chamber of Westminster Abbey for 50 years, the treble-table, which had been placed there for the use of the revisers of the Bible, has been removed by the authorities. The work of the revisers was completed in 1881, but the table with its red baize remained until order was recently given.
